BASE BALL COMMENT.

The suspicion that Pitcher Stricklett The suspicion that Pitcher Stricklett was not in condition became a certainty yesterday afternoon, when the ex-Kansas City player was stacked up against the Youngstown Giants. In one inning the hit record was seven singles, a double, a triple and a homer, if Stricklett is not conditioned soon it would be well for the Wheeling management to make another effort to bring Pitcher Bates to his senses.

Lyons retired from the game, Taylo Lyons retired from the game. Lytle essayed the left field position with good success. He hit at a 333 clip, and scored two runs. It's decidedly a good thing to have so good a man as "Pop" on the bench, handy for emprecise.

Rothermel had an off day of it at short field yesterday.

At last Columbus wins a game, and poor Pat Wright's cup of sorrow is full to overflowing. Last full they were showering roses on the big fellow; now the New Castle directorate (there's fifty of 'em) has become a "knockerate."

Matters of Interest in the Metropolis of Belmont County.

The game of ball between the Union and Belmont street teams yesterday, was a warm one for three or four innings, but after that the spirit was all out of Captain Ney's team. The boys who lined up under Captain Hopkins had more ginger in those all the way through, and Billy George made it so lively and interesting in adopting the professional tactics to rattle Charlle Hippus, who was the real promoter of the game, that the spectators lingered until the finish. The distinguishing features was the successful batting of the Hopkins team and the limited hits of the Ney nine. The pitching of William Nelaon, John Pish, Charles Bippus and Minehan was great, especially that of the first named, while the catching of Dr. Bestham and Otto Glassow was of the professional kind. Tid Heatherington as a short stop, kept up his end at a lively gait. There were some good plays and lots of fun all through the game. The teams were lined up as follows: Hopkins team—Glassow, catcher, Nelson, pitcher; Tid Heatherington, short stop; Shindewolf, first Dase; George, second base; McClellan, third base, Hopkins, right field, Edward Milligan, center field; Thorn, Archer, left field, Ney team—Beetham, catcher: Minehan, pitcher; C. W. Bippius, short stop; Kirkpatrick, first buse; Ney, second base; Fish, right field, Wassman, center field; Walter, left field, intro of the first team. Senator F. B. Archer was umpire and was roasted Just like a professional would be.

The reorganization of the penitentiary was the occasion of a great clamor for place. Warden Darby was duly installed without much ceremony and most of the important places under him were filled without a great dealled refetton, though there were several candidates for the various places. It was for the 108 guardships that the greatest push was made, every county in the state having a number of applicants. But the board and the warden finally concluded to let the guards alone for a time, so they turned a deaf ear to all of them. Many of the guards will remain unmolested, but several of them will go.
